

Mist & The Morning Dew "Repentance"

Repentance,
left behind I have those sour moments.

Saddled,
and my journey to home started.

From inner lands I left, and will never return,
the sea will be my home from now on.

Fears from you I learned,
as my journey went on.

You brought me the shimmering meadows,
and darkest stars at nights, I travelled.
You showed me bitter delights and those moments,
I enjoyed.

Scales to my back you brought and grills to my neck,
ocean waters you taught me to adore,
repent shall I not, you taught, and hastened my journey,
to forget, you showed me, is the key to my glory.
