She's only 15 years old, no place to call home
She's scared, hungry and cold
People on the street, won't look her in the eyes Ignoring what they see, they just pass her by
That ain't the way we were meant to be

I wonder what God's thinkin' when He looks down on us
After all He sacrificed look at what we've become
When the rain falls from heaven is it the tears from His eyes
Is an angry clap of thunder His voice cryin' why
There seems to be so few believin'
I wonder what God's thinkin'

People dyin' for the color of their skin
For the clothes they wear, the shoes they're in
But we just turn our backs and don't react Take the problems and we just sweep 'em under the mat
But that ain't the way we were meant to be

I wonder what God's thinkin' when He looks down on us
After all He sacrificed look at what we've become
When the rain falls from heaven is it the tears from His
eyes
Is an angry clap of thunder His voice cryin' why
There seems to be so few believin'
I wonder what God's thinkin'

I know all wasn't lost, when He died on the cross

But I wonder what God's thinkin' when He looks down on us
After all He sacrificed look at what we've become
When the rain falls from heaven is it the tears from His
eyes
Is an angry clap of thunder His voice cryin' why
There seems to be so few believin'
I wonder what God's thinkin'

Only 15 years old, no place to call home

She's scared, hungry and cold
