I went on down to the other side of town last night and saw you there.

I wanted you to be by my side, and I wanted you to really care.

And the minute I saw your wonderful smile I just couldn't resist
the thought of you being by my side forever after this.

Chorus:

I'm dying to be in your arms, dying to be with you.

I am in love, but you don't even have a clue.

I'd ask you out, but if you said no it'd break my heart in two

And every time I see you standing by someone else's side.

It tears my heart apart, and I just die inside.

And I can't help it, it's the way that I feel. I could almost cry.

I'm dying to be in your arms, dying to be with you.

So tonight I sit here thinking all about you and me and how perfect we would be

and all the things that we could do together to make us really happy.

And I wish that you would just say the words that I've been wanting to hear;

that you will be with me forever and always be near.
