Since you're not a boy
You don't understand
I do my best to please my woman
And somehow she still wants me to change
I chill with the guys
You start to complain
I'm constantly accused of cheating
And you're jelous over everything
Since you're not a boy
You don't understand
How it feels to love you girl
And you don't know if she's feeling the same
You don't know how it feels
When what you do's not enough
Then you lose the one you love
Because she no longer trusts you
And everything that we had is gone
But your not a boy
I don't expect you to know
I try my best to avoid an arguement
So sometimes I just turn off my phone

But you stay on my mind
Although you think I don't care
I'm wondering if she's still faithful
And when I get home will she be there
Since you're not a boy
You don't understand
How it feels to love you girl
And you don't know if she's feeling the same
You don't know how it feels
When what you do's not enough
Then you lose the one you love
Because she no longer trusts you
And everything that we had is gone
Girl you never believe where I say I was at Telling me that I cheat when you don't know the facts
Go ahead and go I don't care if you don't know
But your not a boy
You don't understand
How it feels to love you girl
And you don't know if she's feeling the same
You don't know how it feels
When what you do's not enough
Then you lose the one you love
Because she no longer trusts you
And everything that we have is gone

But you're not a boy.
