Haven't got a sign or a clue of how you should be of what you should do to win the big race such a disgrace when there is no way out on a dead end street can't make it right can't stand on your feet when you got knocked down fell on the cold ground so what now? ... how come such a sunny day can look so gray? And you just can not figure out why you don't want to keep on playing, is this game a bunch of lies and you feel you have had enough you want to fill the empty half of what you lost on your way here, you have got to fight through all your fears in this game of life no need to run no need to hide next time you fall on the cold ground you will know why the sky is so grey why there is no need for you to keep on playing, cause you don't belong in this big race at all!
