I can wait for hours
I can watch you from behind
You can go but I will be waiting until you will come around
No one else to trust and there is nothing we can't do
You might say that it's a trap
But we can hold hands and break through Break through the dreams we ever had
Nothing can divide us
Everything can change
Except from what we want
Except from how we are bond
Sometimes I can close my eyes and I feel I lost something inside
All the memories from our past
Keep on hitting strike by strike and even in the darkest tunnel I will always see a light
If there is somehow you can see it then come hold my hand
And run run through the dreams we ever had
Nothing can divide us
Everything can change
Except from what we want
Except from how we want
Except from what we want
Except from how we are bond.
