When it all falls down at once
Gonna try to get some sleep
And the comforts of this bed
Have all been shattered to pieces

I have a knack for feeling lost
All those times I couldn't eat
Like I couldn't barely love
I'm getting tired of screaming
(I'm tired of screaming)

The sun comes up
And now you have a chance again
The world falls down
We all forget where to begin
The world collapses
And you hold it in

Maybe I have said too much
Or really haven't said enough
All these words they come undone
I'm getting lost in the meaning

I'm building coldness in my thoughts
I'm getting frozen all alone
In a world that we destroyed
I'm trying to pick up the pieces

The sun comes up
And now you have a chance again
The world falls down
We all forget where to begin
The world collapses
And you hold it in

The sun comes up
And now you have a chance again

All you've loved, leave yourself
You drift away in your arms

Hoping as you catch me

Caught before I hit the ground
I'm dying for you to hold me
The feeling is forever happy
All at once, all at once

The sun comes up
And now you have a chance again
The world falls down
We all forget where to begin
The world collapses
You hold it in

The world collapses
You hold it in
The sun comes up
And now you have a chance again

So sleep now, together
So sleep now, [Incomprehensible]
