Though friends might come along you will see that the storms keep on coming Through thick and thin we'll stand and brave the weather
As the raindrops keep on falling on the shoes we bought today
Don't turn the other way we'll keep on building the bridges we built on yesterday The bricks we lay on down well they don't cry don't make a sound
And as they're falling into place, they light up your face
Drown sorrow with your smiles; we'll go the extra mile To Paris, if we have to, it'll always be worth while So drink your cup my friend to this there'll be no end Put a log on the fire and watch the flames go higher

Let it burn
Like me and you

Like good friends do
We'll burn with other friends too

Today you will see oceans roll over sand and wash away
The pictures we drew with a princess that needs to be saved
As tides pull the drawings we made we can know
The memories we make will remain in our hearts

Our love for the road and the wind in our hair sets us free
To go where we want and to take photos for all to see A picture can scream at the top of its lungs
And not describe the love that we share

So let it burn
Like me and you
Like good friends do
We'll burn with other friends too
