JD lives on my street, stole his fathers car
Drove it through the garage door.
So poor now working at the corner store,
Indentured to the damages, Manotick, and finishing school.

This song makes him want to dance
Got to dance now, on the street you grew up on.
This song makes him want to dance
Like hips are attached to his tongue in a toaster.

Do you, do you do? Do you do
Do the Doot do doo doo?
Do you, do you do? Do you do
Do the Doot do doo doo?

Monday, paving up the country
High walling, dry walling
Hoping that the sun sets soon.
Pay day, walking to the beer store
We used to have a bar where
The Famous Lovers drank.

It's gone, makes me want to dance
Got to Dance now, on the street you grew up on

This song makes you gt to dance on gravel lots,
Roof tops, of broken teeth buildings.

Do you, do you do? Do you do
Do the Doot do doo doo?
Do you, do you do? Do you do
Do the Doot do doo doo?
Do ya?

She likes shake shake shake.

Do you, do you do? Do you do
Do the Doot do doo doo?
Do you, do you do? Do you do
Do the Doot do doo doo?
Do ya?

The way a week can take so long,
And nothing ever changes.
The way he still lives on my street,
Like nothing ever changes.

Even if the town you grew up in is gone now,
Do the Doot do doo doo and you can get home.
