Feel as the bright daylight shines on me
I sit here still until this night within me sleeps

Bleed every time a tear drops to the floor the cry still awakes me, the pain still exist in me

I still live in their stories, as a haunted figure
Some may mourn me, some just ignore me

Soon the night will fade away this pain the unveiling light appears to take me away

The wall reflects the frozen strain
That entwines me and the shadow on my name

I fall apart
I walk the same way from where I came
The same way from where I came

The wall...
