"Stone"

All the smoke clouds your heart now shutting down
But everything around is calling for you
You say you can stop whenever you want but you hold on
To the grass on the ground burning your soul

Do you believe
In being free
Can you remember
Who you used to be

Can you break free
You say you see
But you can't feel
Cos you are made of stone

All the secret trips to no where at all
The weight of your own body bringing you down
All the times you've had to lie to keep that up
The little voices in your heart telling you that's enough

Do you believe
In being free
Can you remember
Who you used to be

Can you break free
You say you see
But you can't feel
Cos you are made of stone

But you can change it all
You are not alone
Get to know yourself and break free from something you are not Take control of who you are Breath in the air outside that cloud
Remember that you were not born made out of stone

There was a time
You can't remember now
When you didn't have to hide to feel alive

You can go back
To being free
From all the demons that have turned you into stone
