

Jesse Ruben

"Enough"

Visit "Enough" on MotoLyrics.com

Ain't been sleepin' much lately
All the walls are talking crazy
I'm not proud to say it out loud, but maybe I miss you

Couldn't give up the one that I was close to Couldn't let go even though I chose to And I won't brag, or wave a white flag, like some do but I miss you

Now I'm stuck to these sheets, in the bed we used to share
These chains on my feet, are the ones you made me
wear Feelin' incomplete, and I doubt that you still care, but it's been rough
But I'm enough

I drove past our old apartment
A broken glass is how it started Since you left, catchin' my breath is harder
And I miss you

So I'm all alone in my basement
And a dial tone won't help erase it It's my turn I guess I should learn, to face it
And I miss you

Now I'm stuck to these sheets, in the bed we used to
share
These chains on my feet, are the ones you made me
wear
Feelin' incomplete, and I doubt that you still care, but
it's been rough
But I'm enough

Visit Jesse Ruben page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.