In my mind I see liquid
Honey
Caressing each fold of my skin

Its soothing compassion
Lovingly rolling
Guides me to where I begin

The sweetness tells me of days when I was a child
I would lie, as I do now
Nowhere

Chlorophyll hairs swaying with the breeze
Clouds sit on my eyelashes
Dew drops rest to kiss flowers
Time travels in circular ways
Spiraling home through the vertical hour.
Body and space are one

Alone we form the seas we make
Where we can find the seas within
And flow with ship-like clouds
Across these lidded spheres

In my mind I see
Soothing compassion
Rolling to where I begin
