Down at the house with the red light
She works from seven till dawn
You'll find her there any time that you like
Some days a week she'll be on
Down at the house with the red light

I was a boy not too sure of myself
When I was first taken down
Down to the house with the red light
Two miles west of town
I paid my fee and I went on in

Into the house with the red light
Room number 10, up the stairs
The key was cold and damp in my hand
Opened the door, heard her say
"Get into my room and sit yourself down"

She lay so white on her shiny brass bed
Ribbons and flowers in her hair
She played my soul and she shattered my head
Could not believe I was there
Down at the house with the red light

I fell in love with that lady
First love I knew she gave me
Seven days a week you can find her
Down at the house with the red light

I fell in love with that lady
I fell in love with that lady
I fell in love with that lady
