I saw it walking lonely down the street
Cool like a cat and like a crazy dream
I'm looking twice again and can't believe
It turned around and then it looked at me

I thought, "Oh, no", it really couldn't be
It was a man and was a woman too
He's a woman, she's a man

I think it really came from far away
I'm feeling hypnotized, I have to stay
It takes my hand and says, "Come on, let's go"
We're going home there's nothing more to say

He starts to move, she starts to play
I need a body, why not you?
He's a woman, she's a man
