

Arman Srsa "Trouble All Around"

Visit "Trouble All Around" on MotoLyrics.com

Cost-effective new improved machines
For production and construction
Well I guess that means That pretty soon we'll be replaced
Because if computer codes can run the show,
Then what good is the human race
In this mall obsessed society, buying junk that we don't need
Building up the cities, chopping down the trees Until there's nothing left you see
No food to eat or air to breath
Nowhere left to live, for you and me

And there's so much trouble, trouble all around
Drilling and rebuilding to the sky up from the ground
Yeah there's so much trouble, trouble all around,
When they gonna see my friends, what goes up it must come down

A century was gone too soon
Jet planes, electricity and the first man on the moon
Silent moving pictures and things that we could watch In little wooden boxes, that lit up when they were touched
With mankind's great achievements why can we not overcome
Fear, injustice suffering and replace it with love?
Why are we so destructive? Instead of building schools and homes
Politicians argue, while governments are building bombs...

And there's so much trouble, trouble all around
Drilling and rebuilding to the sky up from the ground
Yeah there's so much trouble, trouble all around,
When they gonna see my friends, what goes up it must
come down

La, la la, la la la la
La, la la, la la la la

