when they come for you don't let them take your heart if you forget what's true just remember that everything has its start everything has its start now, take a look at these hands fields of blue, unfold to greet the three wise men who somehow forgot to put their angels on hold their angels on hold now, see those two lost gods trying everything they can to find a home in this world they'll try anything to get you to love them again

to love them again

so, when they come for you pointing their fingers so cold don't forget all of your friends who would always be happy to put your angels on hold
your angels on hold ...
