You wanna know why she had to go you're not the only one who's looking for an answer if she could tell you what you want to know you wouldn't be here at all so going ask her

You wouldn't see nothing until it turns around and leaves you you see it coming until it finally catches up with you but the same is true for everyone there's something you can walk away from

She's not your lover so don't pick up the phone there's someone else already there to lay beside you you wait tomorrow but you still feel just as tired and alone

until it finally catches up with you
but the same is true for everyone
walk away from

She's sings the same song every night a dark and empty stretch of ..when.. her arms been broken by the sun and when she needs a rain

until it finally catches up with you
but the same is true for everyone
walk away from
walk away from
you can walk away from
