the freeway is filling up as the sun is coming up and I, I will weep no more and my love was filling up her flesh formed a cup
and I, I will weep no more and everything that lays in scatter from all of last night's chatter

and I, I will weep no more the smoke that's still in turn from the cigarette that burns and I, I will weep no more so let the memories just be like the leaves around the trees and I, I will weep no more

I, I will weep no more and when ugly sight means nothing to the blind

I, I will weep no more
and when our last fight it seems utterly unkind
I, I will weep no more

and when the blood slows down to a deep black sound
I, I will weep no more
and when the cheated groom well he empties like the room
I, I will weep no more

I, I will weep no more ...

and when these tired eyes can only see to the inside
and when my careless tongue speaks of nothing and no one I said that I, I will weep no more and when I turn away from you and there's nothing to improve oh I, I will weep no more so let recklessness abide to everything we cannot hide 'cause I, I will weep, I will weep no more

I, I will weep no more
I, oh I will weep, I will weep no more
