

Neal McCoy

"The Strongest Man In The World"

Visit "The Strongest Man In The World" on MotoLyrics.com

What started out as small talk
On a bus stop bench before work
Turned into the greatest love story
I've ever heard

She said, "He's not the kind to send roses
Can't afford diamonds and pearls
When it comes to lifting my spirits
He's the strongest man in the world"

She said, "He stops my tears before they start
He can be so tender and still be tough
With his crooked smile, melt my heart
Fill an empty room with love if anybody can"
'Cause he's the strongest man in the world

She said, "He's always leavin' love notes
On the refrigerator door
And I leave surprises in his lunch box
To even up the score"

I was thinkin' what I'd give to be with
Such a wonderful girl
But I know I couldn't compete with
The strongest man in the world

She said, "He stops my tears before they start
He can be so tender and still be tough
With his crooked smile melt my heart
Fill an empty room with love if anybody can"
'Cause he's the strongest man in the world

And she pulled out his picture
That's when I realized
The strongest man in the world
Was only five

Visit Neal McCoy page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.