"Our Special Place"

Walking the streets of beautiful Saint Lona
Hoping to find a place to stay
Searching the streets disregarding the town's persona
Eventually I'll find my way

What happened to our special place
The silent snow is falling on my face
A candle light is seen through a windowpane

I'm following the street lights
I know that hope will show us better heights
I want to hold you now oh my darling girl

It's so late and I really feel cold
Wandering the ice of night
Yet I know she's here in my heart
And her smile can make it right

What happened to our special place
The silent snow is falling on my face
A candle light is seen through a windowpane

I'm following the street lights
I know that hope will show us better heights
I want to hold you now oh my darling girl

What happened to our special place
The silent snow is falling on my face
A candle light is seen through a windowpane

I'm following the street lights
I know that hope will show us better heights
I want to hold you now oh my darling girl

Our special place is no longer here
I just don't know where to go
