It's so damn unbelievable but love can make a breach How else could my heart call out to where no man could ever reach
I can clearly feel right now how danger's in the air Really this feeling is too good it's too good for me to care
Please make believe in that we're together like old times
I've been running all my life, it's the worst one of my crimes

I'll be there, should you ever cry
This is your own lullaby

I don't need anything from the world
Just let me stand here and adore you
My infatuation's flowing endlessly
I want to shout it out: I'm in love

I'll always call for you, even when I am not safe
And I'll still think of you when it means being sorry
Sometimes I figure I'm a little crazy
But hey it's either that or I really found true love There's nothing in this world that will keep me from going strong
Your tender kiss and touch could never prove this wrong

I'll be there should you ever cry
Listen to your own lullaby

I don't need anything from the world
Just let me stand here and adore you
My infatuation's flowing endlessly
I want to shout it out: I'm in love

The silent winter has finally left this town
There's nothing left of it except my weary frown
I'd do anything not to have to let you go Stupid how you could end up hurting the one you truly love
I welcome pain into my life, it's no big deal

Compared to the apathy it almost seems unreal

I'll be there, should you ever cry
Listen to your own lullaby

I don't need anything from the world
Just let me stand here and adore you
Infatuation's flowing endlessly
I want to shout it out: I'm in love
