I've been waiting for too long
Staring at the sun
Waiting for the night to come
So I can get things done
I can't wait for this no more
My eyes have come undone
If my star will ever rise
Let it be the only one

And if I see you waiting for the setting sun
It will never come
And if it ever comes
You're forever young
You're forever young

Ice is just a remedy for pain and rising heat
Hold it in your hands and watch the puddles form around your feet
And if you drink the water
It might just stop the pain
From dreaming of the fever drowning holes around your name

And if I see you waiting for the setting sun
It will never come
And if it ever comes
You're forever young
You're forever young

If you're scared about the future
I'm scared about the past
And if you're feeling ill
It's cos the world is spinning fast
Yeah, you're staring at the sun
Yeah, you better all hold on
And watch the sky become the ground

Forever young

And if I see you waiting for the setting sun
It will never come

And if it ever comes
You're forever young
You're forever young
Forever young
