

Eskimo Callboy

"New York"

Visit "New York" on MotoLyrics.com

Hey, hey, I know it wasn't New York
Where I lost my mind.
Hey, hey, I know I must have left it
It was back home all the time.
And where were you while we lay
So drunk that we died?
Hey, Hey, I know, but who could blame us?
Under pressure
And I know I know I should have stayed in bed.
Hey, hey, I know it's just a toothache
I won't even cry.
Hey, hey, the candy store prescriptions
All lined up in the aisles.
And where were you while we lay
Shipwrecked in denial?
Hey, hey, it's just a little pill to help you
Sleep right through the night.
I should have stayed in bed.
And I know I should have stayed in bed.
I know I should have stayed in bed
because Tomorrow's gonna be another party.
You stay too long until the lights get lonely.
Oh, tomorrow's gonna be another party
Wait too long til we
All stay out of the sun.
Sun. I know, I know, it wasn't New York

Visit Eskimo Callboy page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.