More by chance than planned
I've finally thrown some light
I won't make that stand
I won't ask you why
I just hope you know now
I'm still as stupid, still as blind
If you don't hear forgiveness, watch my mouth
I know all this adds up, i just don't know how
If you don't have the will to breathe, better start now
Better start now
I know what's all washed up will all wash out
More by luck than judgement
Seems we've kept acquainted
Always absent, never present
Must have tried your patience
I just take your best intentions
And complicate them
If you don't hear forgiveness, watch my mouth
I know this all adds up, i just don't know how
If you don't have the will to breathe, better start now
Better start now
I know what's all washed up will all wash out
Take your hands off her, why can't you tell?
You know and i know
You only try to console yourself
Please don't touch her, that's enough now -
She knows you too well
Don't ask her to sympathise, not now
Not now, not now, not now, no
