Hey how is your time spent?

Do you recall the night we met?

She stood in an open field, but soon she'll burn away. You know that i wish i could stop,

But i'm lying on the floor the room is spinning as you walk outside my door.

Do you think that i could feel this way,

In a million years if you weren't here with me tonight,

And what would you think if i said that i'd love you always, burn mine this time.

If you say that you love me then why would you let yourself be passed around?

I'll hold you in tight and never let you out, it's just you and me tonight
