staring out the window thinking bout that day as memories start to flow in my brain as my tears fall like rain
i was staring in those beautiful eyes of yours as you told our fate
left me alone to die in the cold left me standing in the rain left me standing in the rain and now ill never be the same.
because my soul was lost that day you left me in the rain.
now i cant help but cry because all i feel is pain so i just stare outside cuz all thats left is the rain the rain.

like rain
i was staring in those beautiful of yours eyes as you

rain
now these raindrops forever fall and they cut me up like blades every single one is a memory that leaves bruises on my face and thunder starts to roar as im standing in the place reminising on the time when you were gone and everything turned to rain the rain the rain the rain the rain.

it was our time to shine and always were you mine then it began to rain... it began to rain and we were just fine and our love would fly
