I'm awake in a forlorn hours
I'm awake in a saddest season
Everything written of a letter
Silent witnesses of my great sorrow
Another chapter is schism and hesitation
Words said the memories are not forgotten
The wounds won't be heal scars are everlasting
Dissension pierced amity has been deceived
Day by day I'm awoken in grief
Day by day I'm awoken in sad
Distressed moments
I'm alive in this alienation
Come on...
This line of stories reveals my endless indifference
All the words you said is the power of my hatred
The view from his eyelids reflecting your theory
Imposing, immersing, imploring
The killing of my mind
I'll be different with my paradox
I'll be different with my own thoughts
I'll be different when you're pushing me down
I'll be different with my own gun
