Don't mind the waters around you, or the temptation it withholds.

At the bottom of this ocean you'll find nothing but hope.

And who need hope in a world that destroys your dreams

And demolish your needs?

I need to find clarity, a definition of home.

So many promises are gonna break us apart.

Is there anybody out there, with a feeling of despair?

So many unbreakable promises broken.

We unearth the past in search to find a context of the present.

Digging up memories of times we think we were great.

But it's easy to think, a whole other thing to feel.

You can try all you want, but I'm unbroken.

I am unbreakable.
