We used to be so perfect
We came together fine
It seemed like a crime

This world so blind
We once created
More than a fairytale
Oh, how we shined?

Not anymore, not anymore
Not anymore, not anymore

I sing for justice
Here we stand in a time
Waiting for our one last shot
Shot to come in

This world so blind
We once created
Where faked and painted smiles
Felt so naked

I was blind without a stick
Taste of morphine on your lips
Made me sick

Never learned to love surprises
Respecting how we swore
Eye for an eye
Smile for a smile

Not anymore, not anymore
Not anymore, not anymore

I sing for justice
Here we stand in a time
Waiting for our one last shot
Shot to come in

This world so blind
We once created
Where faked and painted smiles

Felt so naked, so naked

When your wings are torn
The distance between right and wrong
Is too short

And it feels you got nothing left to lose
Sky above falling down
You feel abused

And I don't want it
No I don't want it
This endless mile
That we are walking

Waiting for one last shot
To come in
But we need it
Somehow we need it

This unknown that we're suffering for Losing hold of what we were before

Where's the mercy?
When we needed the most
When we can't hold on
I'll be okay, I'll be alright

Nothing can break me down
No one can hurt me
As long as you say
That you'll stay another day

We used to be so perfect
