I'm getting so tired, so tired of the same
The same old shit just on a different day
You think that you know, but how could you see
The problems I face, the battle in me
The days pass me by and still all the same
When nothing is different, it drives me insane
All that I am, all that I'll be
Is so undecided, the battle of me

What if I'm on my own by myself all alone
What if I can't be there all the same everywhere

I'm getting so tired, I'm needing a break
A break from all the, shit that I take
I'm tired of all this, waiting around
For something to happen in this little town
Don't tell me you know, don't say you agree
With all that I'm saying, don't think you know me
All that I am, all that I'll be
Is so undecided, the battle of me

What if I'm on my own by myself all alone
What if I can't be there all the same everywhere
