Meet me halfway I'm sure it'll work
The sun is nearly setting
I take this chance on you and

This isn't just a game I've got to win
You've proved me wrong
It's more than that

Ace of spades says that you're a sure bet
(Though) I'm late to recognize it
Sitting at my door step

Breathing in this air it feels so warm
I've said it before
You're all I want

You're all I want
I've been so wrong
All along
All along
You've stood on solid ground
All along
All along
I've finally perceived
That all along
You've stood on solid ground
And suddenly I see there is no misery, no, no

Oh, I'm taking off these chains I've worn
And now I can finally feel
Air blowing through my lungs and

Words no longer wear a coat of stone
There's symmetry
Real memories

You're all I want
I've been so wrong
All along
All along
You've stood on solid ground
All along

All along
I finally understand
That all along
You've stood on solid ground
I see no slipping sand below me now

My armour's on the ground, once and for all
The constant fight is over and my sword is on the floor
I'm betting that you knew this all along
