and with the ring of a bell. they like to say an angel is born

from what i can tell. i can say there basically wrong angels aint winged beings that take you by storm

no. they appear in the most basic of forms.

in dark times when i seemed to need em the most.

i never see angels. just demons and ghosts.

i feel sorry for the folks who believe in the hoax

i speak the truth. i got the proof to leave em exposed.

there aint no fucking angels saving us from the dark times

for me it was things like graffiti and art crimes.

now with the simple use of a pad and a pen.

i steer clear of a life filled with sadness and sin.

in the madness i started losing family and friends.

i couldnt handle it . something else had to begin.

so it was. and there began my life in the times.

i would find a new meaning from writing these rhymes..
so in a certain way. rap would bless and save my life

it taught me lessons of how to start behaving right.

stay humble

true to friends and true to yourself.

stay decent.

life is probably brutal in hell.
man hell aint a place with a devil and flames
its in your brain.
its hard to stay mentally sane.
life is filled with scars and potentially pain.
but try to not be hard. and never be vein.
its best to attain
a positive view
despite of it all.
to often to choose pain
your likely to fall.
be proper is all
be cool and try to be tall.
if you like to fued then try and put a mic in your palm.
dont be a dick. hip hop has plenty of those.
with the big egos. but the emptiest soul.
