I'm venting like vapors...
A complimenting stare forty seconds of silence do not breathe to spite the air contradictions, they've all been said before but not like this my love, not so sweetly

we lose sight of the way

different eyes see different things seperate lives lead seperate ways your blame is given, not recieved take your fallacy and leave

I'm echoing vapors through a broken thought corridor walking out of your red mist with all the shadows that I've kissed accusations, they've all been said before but like this my hate, not so sweetly

we lose sight of the way

take your fallacy and leave... Leave

take your fallacy and leave it
