waiting by the doorstep tonight what a crazy thought that i ever thought i'd be alright never thought i'd find one like you you proved me wrong just like the others now i've come unglued whooo oo oo

picturing your headlights pulling into the drive laying here with my eyes towards the stars in the sky struggling to find reason in anything anymore when you fill my heart with nothing but more bulls your minds wrapped around it i can't wait till you get what you need what you need what you see isn't what you should do still you leave like you always will do when you think i'm asleep and not watching i followed you to his house the other day so slick so sly i heard the door creak from the inside u walked up to his house and i drove by parked in a nearby motel parking lot with my eyes open watching you through a keyhole as you crush my heart i always should've known you be the best one yet i'm feeling all sorts of messed up in the head while you move with him on that bed words mean nothing cuz you're so full of full of Bulls your lifes based off of it i can't wait till you get what you need what you need what you

always
