On a lonely highway out of Santa Fe,
I guess the sky it must have been too blue,
Because my thoughts started drifting away to a girl that I once knew.
She had eyes like the falling rain in the summer and now it's storming in my mind.

Something 'bout her blue eyes
Got a hold of my heart
Something 'bout her long brown hair is tearing me
apart
Something 'bout her smile
drives me wild
Something 'bout her blue eyes
Got a hold of my heart

Now I thought these miles they could ease my mind
But I've had the time to realize,
That I'll never fall for any girl I find I'll still be lost in her eyes
There was a time when I was higher than the stars
Now something's got me down

Something 'bout her blue eyes
Got a hold of my heart
Something 'bout her long brown hair is tearing me
apart
Something 'bout her smile
drives me wild
Something 'bout her blue eyes
Got a hold of my heart

I've got to turn this car around it's the only thing to do Before she's got her eyes on someone new

And it's something 'bout her blue eyes
Got a hold of my heart
Something 'bout her long brown hair is tearing me
apart
Something 'bout her smile
drives me wild

Something 'bout her blue eyes
Got a hold of my heart

Something 'bout her smile
Oh drives me wild
Something 'bout her blue eyes,
Oh those blue eyes, got a hold of my heart
