She had a face from an animation
Before a cinema screen projection
And if you ever got bad reception
She'd flash a smile and change the perception

She got suspicious of my intention
I didn't give her enough attention
Like I would give into some temptation
I think her head needed medication

I told her on Alderan
That nothing else was going on x4
One day I took her to see the doctor
He put her in a cell and locked her
And all the patients, they started to mock her
For ever thinking that someone would leave her

I told her on Alderan
That nothing else was going on
x4
(silver pylons in the sun)
