What a girl
Not the time
The brightest charm
The faintest smile
She knows not what she has

What a boy
Right on time
What's it worth?
He'll have to find
She knows not what she has

The towering wall between them
Cast the darkest shadow at her feet

Quivering hands they tore a ticket
that would bring them both to see

Disappointed in herself
He tries to make her smile
She won't let go of the past
He'll try to stay a while
(She knows not what she has)

Some words can toss her like a stone
His arms they hold her, keep her warm
He'll be there till the end
She knows not what she has

Fear of something new in her
Like cutting through a weakened bond
He'll mean it till the end
She knows not what she has

The towering wall between them
Cast the darkest shadow at his feet
Quivering hands they tore a ticket
that would bring them both to see

Disappointed in herself
He tries to make her smile
She won't let go of the past

He'll try to stay a while

Building bridges she once burned
Allows old travelers to return
She says that they won't make it through again

He gets scared flies towards the light
That tempted him to drop the fight
And leave it there to die

She's something special he has said
He meant it all even the end
Please let her know that she means everything to me

Disappointed in herself
He tries to make her smile
She won't let go of the past
He'll try to stay a while

Disappointed in herself
He tries to make her smile
She won't let go of the past
He'll try to stay a while
(She knows not what she has)

He'll be there till the end
