Again I'm here in this enchanted kingdom
I'll fetch up there before I sing my swan song
Say why couldn't I visit it many a time
Every night and day, every day and night
And again some odd things happen
There's no one whom I can question, 'Oh, why
Is there a sea in the street where it can't be?
Should I swim across it or should I find an alternative?'

The street is full of water
Up and down my tire is floating
My friends are behind and I'm deserted
My sea route doesn't become shorter

The street is full of water
Up and down my tire is floating
My friends are behind and I'm deserted
My sea route doesn't become shorter

You're not in joking mood,
Don't be afraid to get wet
In my dream you can do anything, anything
I made my choice indeed and gonna fight all night
All I need is to swim straight
I'm enjoying myself, please, don't try to wake me up
It's not funny, you have already got a swap
Because you missed your work today by sleeping
So now relax and cross this flooded fucking street with me

The street is full of water
Up and down my tire is floating
My friends are behind and I'm deserted
My sea route doesn't become shorter

The street is full of water
The street is full of water
My friends are behind
The street is full of water

"Hello? Are you alright? I ask the professor if I could see you again.

There's not much time... I wanted to tell you, I mean apologize. I did treat you miserably, didn't want you to go on. They hurt deeply. I couldn't tell you, could I? I do have plans of my own, and you do have problems. I want you to do a favor for me. A big, big favor. I want you to leave right now. Stay far away from me and don't come near me again. We're not going to get involved. Last night was last night and it's all there was and that's all there is. There isn't going to be anything more between us. So please, goodbye, good luck, no conversation, just leave."
