

Long Story Short

"Caved In"

I'm waiting for you hoping you were hopeless
And you'd find your way to me
Caved in, burnt out, is this how our story ends
It wasn't meant to be

And now that I'm without you see
The fog just fades away
I took the time to realize
There's nothing left for me to say

But there will be a sunrise, there will be an answer
We will survive, we'll leave it behind
And we were left with nothing, nothing but each other
I promise I'll keep holding on while you're holding on to me

When did silence drown out all the joy
And leave us with the pain
Or have you counted all the things that we've gone through
Yet here we are today

The fog just fades away

And there will be a sunrise, there will be an answer
We will survive, we'll leave it behind
And we were left with nothing, nothing but each other
I promise I'll keep holding on while you're holding on to
me

I've lost myself, I've lost my ways
I just couldn't make you stay
The walls between us fall today

We will survive, we'll leave it behind
There will be a sunrise, there will be an answer
We will survive, we'll leave it behind
And we were left with nothing, nothing but each other
I promise I'll keep holding on while you're holding on to

me
While you're holding on to me
To me, to me,
While you're holding on to me
