He was always there
But nobody seemed to know his name
Looking back, looking back, looking back
Well, he never left his chair
In fact i think he burnt it to the ground Cause they Always had the floor
Never placed themselves aside
To let the man breathe... nobody puts you up nobody puts you down
It's all in your head what they think you should say...
look around
She never raised her head
Becuase of the scar that ran down her Right cheek
She never grew up
Because she turned 29 at age 15
Nobody puts you up nobody puts you down
It's all in your head what they think you should say...
