In that second of dislocation
The world will reach it's end
People will thrive for explanation
But won't be able to understand

The place of no return
Coordinates of doom in time and space

The empires we built for so long
Will twist inside out and fall
We won't know where do we belong
And the end will come for us all
Illusions we built our society on
Will collapse and fade out
Like a petty and unsuccessful con
And united we'll scream it out loud

The place of no return
Coordinates of doom in time and space
The moment when the earth will burn
The last chance for humanity to show it's real face
