When it seems that all is lost and I can't see any way out

My body lying on the ground and loudly I did shout
Inflicted by a thousand questions that I can't explain
Sitting on this lonely staircase I can't still remain

I need Your help!
I need Your help!

I've been running hooded up down this familiar way
I can only gaze at the sky as the pain slips away
Now thank's to You everything is going well
I bow before Your presence a long way from hell

I need Your help!
I need Your help!

Something has change
Something will change
What can I need?
You're everlasting love
What can I do?
Just abandon myself to You.
