Everybody's trying to be somebody else
So I'll just be me
That seems better than a second rate carbon copy to me

Nowhere near perfect I'm so far from that Never been good at math
But I'm alright when those numbers are cash
That just goes to show There's so much more to what we all have

From your cheeks to your nose
Your eyes to your toes
You're the perfect prototype
One unto you own make the most of what you got what you got is more than some I guess I'm trying to say Is that there's nothing wrong with being the way you are

Everybody's trying to be somebody else
So I'll just be me
me
