I'm not iron, I'm not stone
I'm un-burnt clay and it's raining
Now I can't be an asshole cuz I'm all alone
But praying
Life should be a Christmas tree
With presents under it all for me
You may call it selfish but you're not sure
Maybe a reflection of pure?
In the end...

Not a tear falls from your eyes
As I sing my final lullaby
Not a tear falls from your eyes
For me

The wind blew me of course long ago
Now I don't know where I'm sailing
I'm yelling kind of desperately for a tow
But no one's here to take me in
Abandonment is tough because of loneliness
Words not expressed become suppressed
In the end we wonder if we'll die alone
With nothing in the world but a gravestone to show

Not a tear falls from your eyes
As I sing my final lullaby
Not a tear falls from your eyes

(Solo)

Not a tear falls from your eyes
As I sing my final lullaby
Not a tear falls from your eyes
For me

Not a tear falls from your eyes
As I sing my final lullaby
Not a tear falls from your eyes
For me
