I am here to offend you
To help you change your mind
And gain control of your conscience
Just let me dig deeper and turn you into a puppet

So many people have become mindless because of
The pressure to assimilate into a bland world
They do not dare to dwell in their true world
Because if they showed their true side
They would have to face relentless enemies

Listen and don't let this world make you into one
Individualism always prevails
It must be that way or one will cause horrible chaos

The rebel hides until the time is right
The integral mind will overpower the rest
Silent orders will become real to all

Listen and don't let this world make you into one
Individualism always prevails
They would have to face enemies
But their power will awaken these puppets
And make them into one
