They were your children, they were so young, you were meant to protect them from these awful things.
How could you expose them to such atrocities as such defenceless babies?
Everyday you put their lives at risk to quench your selfish habits and now
they have been rescued.
Taken in by a family who will love them more than you ever could.

They are safe while you sit in your eight by ten concrete world.
Your World.
Your harmful hands can no longer reach them.
You dont deserve to watch them grow through your small, cold, barred window.
If you loved them at all you would let them go.
