One step back, take a look around
A break to realize the moment we're living right now
In sweat and tears we are all bound
This feeling can not be bought
It's what's keeping us alive
Inside of all your smiles
You see, my friend, I see the joy
The prospect of a million more moments to come

Miles away
Still it feels just like home
All as one, we all live under the same sun
Miles away
Tomorrow we'll all be back at the real life, but tonight is when we're all alive

Life is shit but when it all comes down
I know I would not be found Anywhere else than right here, right now with all you guys
Just take a look at us
Some barely know the next one
Still tonight we're all family

Miles away
Still it feels just like home
All as one, we all live under the same sun
Miles away
Tomorrow we'll all be back at the real life, but tonight is
when we're all alive

These are the times of our lives
Our movie might burn down, yeah but this one frame will survive
Misery and pain are all too common
Still our real life goes down

Miles away
