

Nevermore

"The World Unborn"

Visit "The World Unborn" on MotoLyrics.com

To be green in the beautiful hour of envy so divine
To be pure, to let chance form your infinite design
Let the seed awakening begin again
I hate the way you judge me
I hate that you're above me
Can't humanity reach a certain point of understanding?

Why do we live this way?
Why do we have to say the things that subvert the minds
of youth?
Why is the world unborn as crashing seas still form?
The vision of the future is of blood

As we face the bleak horizon under crushing skies
The truth belying a future uncertain and dark
We are but one small race, all wear a human face
Yet our image is imperfect and flawed
[From:]

To set our mind free you must first just listen
Don't waste your life on worthless hate and
contradiction, don't you

Reaction in the earth and sky is coming at fast pace
The end to this winding road, extinction of our race
If we all are to survive, there must come great change
I foresee the future, I see the coming plague

Why do we live this way?
Why do we have to say the things that subvert the
minds
of youth?

To set our mind free you must first just listen
Don't waste your life on worthless hate and
contradiction, don't you.

