

Frantic Jack "Vancouver"

Visit "Vancouver" on MotoLyrics.com

I was tired at home, so she asked me to move her
So I packed up my bags and set sail for Vancouver
With a look in her eyes, we were finally free
As she turned and she sang and she screamed out to me

We'll never look back, at the time that we had Baby that was the reason we turned out so bad
She left me behind feeling weak on my own
I turned and I thought hey at least I found home

I'm yours, you see yourself and you leave it there
I'm yours, your breathin life as your breathin air
I'm yours

All the dreams that we had faded off with the ship
All the lies that we told we were joined at the hip

Never asking the question, never cared what it meant
I was home in Vancouver, feeling high as I went

I was tired at home, so she asked me to move her
Packed up my bags and set sail for Vancouver
With a look in her eyes, we were finally free
As she turned and she sang and she screamed out to
me

I'm yours, you see yourself and you leave it there
I'm yours, your breathin life as your breathin air

I'm yours, you see yourself and you leave it there
I'm yours, your breathin life as your breathin air
I'm yours (x4)

Visit Frantic Jack page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.